

PROPERTIES OF ELECTRIC FIELD LINES

- Field lines begin and end at charges
- Field lines end perpendicular to a conductor's surface
- Field lines never cross
- Inside a conductor in an electric field charges are separated by electrostatic induction. They distribute at the surface of the conductor in such a way that inside the conductor the net field is zero.

